The IMPARTIALIST, or UNIVERSAL REFORMER,
No. VI.

(To be continued occasionally.)

The Love of Gaming is the worst ofills; With ceaseless Storms the blacken'd Soul it fills; Inveighs at Heav'n, neglects the Ties of Blood, Destroys the Power and Will of doing Good; Kills Health, pawns Honour, plunges in Disgrace, And, what is still more dreadful—spoils the Face.

YOUNG.

The unhappy Effects of GAMING, instanced in the melancholy Fate of Miss CHARLOTTE.—

To Mr. IMPARTIALIST,

SIR,
OUR seasonable Reflections on the pernicious Practice of Gaming will, I doubt not, awaken Parents to Zeal and Watchfulness against it.—My Family, I am sure, has had Cause to curse it as the Root of all its present Misery.—The homely Tale of Woe may perhaps excite the Scorn of the Gay and Voluptuous, but if it can be of any Service in warning others from the same Calamities, you are welcome to publish it to the World. They who know the fond Connection of Parent, Husband, and Child, will feel for my Distress.

After a successful Course of Business, by which I acquired a competent Estate, I resolved to enjoy Life: And having wedded a young Lady of Merit, we retired to pass the Remainder of our Days in the Tranquility of the Country. Some Years had elapsed, when Heaven blest our Wishes with a Daughter. Her Infancy was the fairest Promise of future Beauty and Excellence. Ah my Charlotte! Memory recalls the Time when, lost in parental Delight, I would fondle thee in my Arms, listen to thy little Prattle, construe all thy sportive Gambols into Beauties,—and while away the Time in pleasing Schemes of thy future Happiness!—I spar'd no Pains to give her all the Education the Country could furnish, and found her Improvements exceeded her Opportunities.—Her Beauty soon attracted a Train of Admirers, and her Good-Sense, Modesty, and Cheerfulness; an equal Number of Lovers; but I soon found her Regard was fixed on one who deserv'd it by his Accomplishments and Fervency of Affection.—Benvolio was the Son and Heir of my Neighbour, a Man of Reputation and Property. To all the generous Virtues of the Heart, he had united by Education a considerable Knowledge of Letters and the World. As the young People were remarkably attached to each other, my Friend, his Father, and I, had frequent Conversations together on the Subject, and entertained ourselves with the Prospect of having our Friendship propagated thro' a happy Train of Descendants; and as my Charlotte was but just Sixteen, we resolved to have them united after two Years Elapse.—Our Pleasure at this Time, was damp'd with the News of the Death of my Sister's Husband. My Sister, who was a Woman of great Spirit and Gaiety, had often requested to have my Charlotte in Town.—She said 'twas spoiling Girls to immure them in the Country; but my Wife and I opposed it, as we could not think of parting with our beloved Child. But my Sister now pressed so urgently for her Company, that we could not deny her the Favour in her Distress. In short, after much Reluctance between the Lovers, and many affectionate Adieus, Charlotte was sent to her Aunt in Town.—From this I date the Era of our Misfortunes.—My Daughter was at first extremely uneasy at her Absence; but after some Months, Variety of Amusements remov'd her Discontent. Her Aunt introduced her into the most fashionable Company, where she found sober Conversation exchanged for Noise, Flattery, and Dissipation. Her good Sense however made her disrelish the Practice; and her Affection for Benvolio (with whom she kept up a constant Correspondence) still remain'd undiminished. But the Scene soon began to alter. The Circle of her Acquaintance was violently attached to Cards, and commonly spent their Evenings in the gentlest Parties, who often endeavoured to laugh Charlotte out of her Aversion to Play.—What Persuasion could not do, Time effected. She first began to tamper with, then to approve, and at last to be eagerly attach'd to the Practice. Her Nights were then devoted to the Card-Table, and a thousand Falacies made use of to elude the Notice of her Aunt. Love soon began to languish, and Benvolio complain'd in vain of the Diminution of her Letters. They insensibly grew cold, and dereas'd, till a total Suspension ensued. Fill'd with Despair and Indignation, he flew secretly to Town, where he soon discover'd the fatal Caufe. He had however too much Spirit to upbraid her for her Inconstancy. His Love still continu'd steadfast; and he often generously convey'd Money to her, without her knowing from whom it came, when he found she had been unfortunate at Play. But, generous Man! He was soon to be robb'd of his Hopes, and I of my Comfort!—Among the Parties in which Charlotte was engag'd, Capt. Ravage was distinguish'd. He had the dexterous Faculty of ever talking without the Expence of Thought, and a natural Vivacity which made Folly agreeable.—Devoid of Principle, and addicted to Pleasure, he resolv'd to make Charlotte his Prey. Knowing her Fondness for Cards, he flatter'd her Dexterity, and practic'd on her a thousand Arts to increase her Propensity for them. When all was clear, he stubborn'd one Lurcher, a Minion to his Pleasures, who dup'd her one Evening at Cards of a Sum of considerable Importance. The artful Villain treated the Matter as a Trifle; till a fair Opportunity offering for their hellish Scheme, he visited Charlotte when my Sister was on a Party of Pleasure; and after apologizing, from the Urgency and Extremity of the Case, requested her immediately to discharge the Debt. Surprized at the unexpected Demand, she was speechless with Anxiety. At this Juncture, as was preconcerted, Capt. Ravage enter'd; and enquiring, with seeming Concern, the Cause of her Emotion, was inform'd by Lurcher. He immediately pretended Resentment, upbraided him for his Cruelty, and said that he would answ'r for Miss Charlotte's satisfying his Demand, if he would but allow her a Moment—Lurcher flung out of the Room, as in a violent Passion, and the Capt. in a polite Manner, begg'd to have the Honour of being her Bunker—Convuls'd with Distress, Shame, and Gratitude, what could she do?—She fell a Victim to his villainous Artifice. Cruel Monster! He not only ensnar'd her Innocence, but gloried in his Achievement, and added Disgrace to her Misfortune. Stung with Remorse and Despair, her Folly, her Perfidy to Benvolio, and her Misery, rush'd in one View on her Mind.—The Struggle was too violent for Nature. She wish'd for Death, and Death approach'd with hasty Strides.

Ye that know the soft Sensibilities of Parental Love, judge of our Distress when we heard at the same Time of her Misfortune and Danger! 'Twas mingled Pity, Anger, and Misery complete! We hasten'd to Town.—Benvolio attended us at her Request—and we surrounded her Bed at the solemn Moment when Life was just extinguishing.—

"Can you forgive me, Benvolio? Can you, my Parents, forgive your wretched Daughter (she cry'd) and her end will yet be happy? Let not, "my dear Father, the deserved Misery of your Charlotte, distress your declining Days. Heaven "support my Parents, and pity me!" She sigh'd—and press'd mine with her feeble Hands, she calmly expir'd.—No, my hapless Daughter, there is no Peace and Comfort left us, depriv'd of Thee!—Why did I expose thy Innocence unguarded, to the Artifice of a designing World? But 'twas not That.—Why did my cruel Sister suffer my Charlotte's Innocence to be corrupted by the insidious Arts of Gaming?—This, Mr. Impartialist, was the Bane of her Virtue!—Warn, then—strenuously exhort your fellow Citizens, against this pernicious Poison. Amidst all my private Misfortunes, it will be some Consolation, if the exemplary Misery of my Family may guard others from the same Ruin.

I am, Sir, your humble servant,

SIMPLEX.

* * The preceding Narrative, it is presumed, will be a sufficient Antidote to the Poison contained in Mr. HOYLE's Letter, as given in our last Number; which IMPARTIALITY obliged us to publish: Wherein the Word Agreement was printed instead of Argument, in the Body of the Letter; and QUEANS instead of QUEENS in the Advertisement.—mong some other typographical Mistakes occasion'd by the Novelty of the Writing.

ROME, November 24.

THE Chevalier Charles Stuart arrived here to be presented to the Sovereign Pontiff.

WARSAW, Nov. 28. It is pretended that the Jews who have been expelled the States of Russia, owe that disgrace to the correspondence which they kept up with the Jews of other countries, and particularly with those dispersed in Poland among the Confederates, and in Turkey, whom they informed of every thing which passed in the States of the Empress.

SMYRNA, Nov. 2. The regency of this place have refused admittance to an English ship of 70 guns, and to two frigates of the same nation, of 36 guns each, in consequence of the intrigues of a certain European power, who hinted that these ships were Russians under English colours, and had on board a large number of troops; and notwithstanding an order obtained by the English Ambassador from the Grand Signor, the Magistrates refused to obey it, and obliged them to cast anchor before the Castle that defends the place.

PARIS, Jan. 14. We are assured, that since the Duke de Choiseul has been at Chanteloup a letter has arrived in characters which no body was able to decypher, in consequence of which the Abbe de la Ville went to Chanteloup, to ask the explication from the disgraced minister, which he gave, that the dispatch came from the Ottoman Porte, in which the Grand Signor communicates to the Duke de Choiseul a new treaty of peace between Turkey and Russia, in which England acted as Mediator, asking his particular counsel in that respect, as he was resolved not to act without his advice, and the approbation of France; to which he added a most flattering eulogium, the Duke de Choiseul gave back the characters to the Abbe de la Ville, that the King might be able to verify the justness of the explication, and be convinced that the praises heaped by his Sublime Highness on that Minister were not servilely solicited.

HAMBURGH, (in Germany) Jan. 18. Letters from Hanover advise, that the King of Great-Britain has given orders to remount the artillery, not only at Hanover, but also at Stade, Hamelen, Hardeburgh, Nienburgh, and other strong places in the Electorate; to make new Baggage waggons, carts, and copper pontons, to replace those that are worn out; and moreover, to take throughout the whole Electorate, on exact list of all the young men able to bear arms.

Constantinople, (the Capital of Turkey) Nov. 17.
Notwithstanding the advantages which General Count Tottleben has gained over the Pachas who opposed his entrance into Armenia, he has been obliged to abandon that province without attacking the fortress of Akaliske, to which he had approached within a league. This retreat has lost the Russians all the advantages which they had obtained in those parts, during the former part of the campaign.

The plague has considerably decreased in this metropolis; the Russian fleet has absolutely left our seas, and the price of commodities has been considerably lowered since the Navigation of the Dardanelles has been opened.

Hague, Jan. 18. The Province of Friseland has just suffered a heavy Loss by the burning of its Admiralty at Harlingen, with the Stores, Archives, and every Thing belonging to it.

Hague, Jan. 21. during the course of last year, 3434 protestants were baptized at Amsterdam, 7402 persons died there, and 1460 protestants were married. During the year 1770, 1579 vessels entered into the Texel.

The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, we hear, is to be created Marquis of Bynham in Norfolk.

Two small French frigates of war, have been observed for these three weeks past, cruising in the channel from Beachy-head down as low as the deadman, to the westward of Plymouth. They are supposed to be stationed to observe what is passing at Portsmouth and Plymouth, having been several times seen quite in with the Isle of Wight, and close to the Mewstone off Plymouth Sound. This account is confirmed by several coasting vessels employed between Plymouth and the river Thames, lately arrived.

Jan. 13. The truth of the following circumstances is positively assured by those who pretend to be masters of the secrets of the cabinet: Ever since the conquest of the Havanah, which shewed the real internal weakness of Spain, our Ministry have always treated the Spanish Ambassador residing at our Court with attention and politeness, but never permitted either the present Ambassador, or his predecessor, to give themselves any unbecoming airs. The present Ambassador had a mind, however, to try the present Administration whether they were made of supple materials or not. In this paroxysm of Spanish haughtiness, he began with speaking in a strain a little too high to Lord Weymouth; but this truly Nobleman cut the insolent Spaniard quite short, by telling him, in plain English, "I do not understand such impertinent language, and I desire never to hear any more such from the Spanish Ambassador." Mortified with this British answer, the Ambassador began to find himself in the wrong box, and accordingly drew in his horns. On Lord Weymouth's recess from office, and Lord Richmond being appointed to succeed him, the Spanish Ambassador again began to prick up his ears; and in a conference with this new Secretary of State, ventured upon the unlucky experiment of telling Lord Richmond that his Lordship had broke his word with him. Lord Richmond gave him a short but smart reply, telling the hot and wrong headed Ambassador, "that he was determined always to have a check upon him," and begged that he might have no more impertinence; and that he would have no farther conference with him on any subject upon any account whatsoever. In consequence of this declaration, our Ministry sent an Express to the Court of Madrid, and on Wednesday last, on the return of the courier, Prince Mafareno received his letters of recall.

By letters from Gibraltar there is advice, that a vessel which put in there from Tangier in Africa, brought an account that on the 2d of December last, there was a severe shock of an earthquake felt there, which lasted two minutes and a half. That great part of the houses were thrown down, and the inhabitants buried in the ruins. The letters further say, that it was felt several leagues at sea, that it was perceived at Gibraltar, and at the time it happened the sea rose considerably.

Feb. 1. We hear that the Lord Chancellor's father is to be created an Earl, by the title of Earl of Cirencester, in the county of Gloucester.

Yesterday Edward Thurlow, Esq; kissed his Majesty's hand on being appointed Attorney-General; and Mr. De Grey as Chief Justice of the Court of Common-Pleas.

Yesterday Commissions passed the Seals for appointing the Earl of Halifax Secretary of State for the Northern Department; and the Earl of Suffolk Keeper of the Privy-Seal; and the same day they both acted in their respective offices.

This day the New Lord Chancellor, Lord Apfley, took his leave of the Court of Common Pleas of which he was a Judge, and with the usual formality ascended the Bench of the High Court of Chancery.

To-morrow the same noble Lord will preside in the House of Peers as Speaker, after taking the usual oaths, and his seat as a Peer.

We are told it was with some difficulty the E— of H— was prevailed on to resign the Privy Seal, and accept the troublesome and responsible post of Secretary of State nor did his Lordship agree to it till late on Sunday evening.

We are assured, that Port Egmont will be immediately resettled, and that in case it shall appear we had not any right, by the law of nations, to take possession of that or any part of Falkland Island, a very convenient harbour at the mouth of the Straits of Magellan, which was discovered by Capt. M'Bride, to which the Spaniards cannot pretend to have the least claim, will be fixed upon for the Establishment of an English colony.

Yesterday Alexander Wedderburne, Esq; was presented to her Majesty at St. James's, on the occasion of his being appointed Cofferer to her Majesty, and most graciously received.

It is confidently said, that the Hon. Charles James Fox, Esq; son of Lord Holland, will be appointed Vice Chamberlain to his Majesty, in the room of Lord Grantham, who is appointed Ambassador to Spain.

We hear that on Wednesday last Mr. Potter was again sent with dispatches to the court of Spain.

Sir Robert Bernard is chosen Recorder of Bedford, in the room of the late Duke of Bedford.

Feb. 8. We are well informed that the Parliament will rise early in April.

It is said with great confidence, that Mr. Wedderburne, the Solicitor General, will shortly preside as Chief in the Court of Common Pleas; and that a higher post is soon intended for the new made Chief of that court.

They write from Leghorn, that a Venetian squadron of great force is now cruising along the Mediterranean coast; for what reason is not known; though it is conjectured to be something more than observation.

It is said the present Duke of Bedford, when of age, will possess near seventy thousand pounds per ann.

The Duke of Bedford, has made the Dutcheis of Bedford's jointure equal to 10,000. per annum, he has also bequeathed to her Grace, all her jewels, trinkets, and paraphernalia, entirely at her own disposal; he has left her the use of Bloomsbury house, furnished as it is at present, and also Wooburn-house and park, during life. He has left his grandson, the now Duke of Bedford, 200. per annum, till he arrives at the age of fifteen; at the age of sixteen, 100. a year more, till he arrives at the age of eighteen, at which period that income is to be augmented to 600. per annum, which he is to receive till he comes of age. To each of his other two grandsons, has left an annuity for life of 600. He has left his widow forty horses. To Richard Rigby, Esq; he has left the sum of 6000l.

By the ship Lydia, Capt. Scott, arrived at Boston in 42 days from London, we have the following Advices, viz.

L O N D O N . February 15.

Upper House, Tuesday Feb. 14. 1778.
THE order of the day being read for taking into consideration the papers relating to the dispute about Falkland's Island, and for the Lords to be summoned:

It was moved by the Duke of Newcastle, That an humble address be presented to his Majesty, to return to his Majesty our thanks for his gracious communication to this House of the Declaration, signed by the Ambassador of his Catholic Majesty, which his Majesty has been pleased to accept.

"To offer to his Majesty our most sincere acknowledgments for having supported the honour of the crown of Great Britain, by a firm and unvaried adherence to his just demand of satisfaction for the injury received, by the violent enterprise of a gaunt Falkland's-Island, by which steady and uniform conduct his Majesty has obtained from the King of Spain and explicit disavowal of the expedition, together with an engagement to restore things to the precise situation in which they were before the late unjustifiable attempt:

"To express our satisfaction on the prospect of the blessing of peace being secured to us, as we have no reason to doubt the good faith of his Catholic Majesty, in the performance of his engagements; and to declare our grateful sense of his Majesty's paternal care of his people, in not too hastily engaging them in the hazards and burthens of war."

"To assure his Majesty of our zeal and readiness on all occasions; to exert our utmost efforts to enable his Majesty to carry into execution such measures as shall be necessary for the support of the honour and dignity of his crown."

Then the Duke of Manchester proposed an amendment to be made to the said motion, by leaving out the words from the end of the first paragraph thereof, to the end of the motion.

Which being objected to, after long debate, the question was put thereupon. It was resolved in the negative. Contents, 38. Not Contents, 137.

Then the said Address was agreed to as at first proposed, and ordered to be presented to his Majesty by the Lords with white staves. Upon which the Lords in the minority entered a protest.

Feb. 18. His Excellency Prince de Maserano, the Spanish Ambassador here, is recalled. He is not to be replaced by any other Ambassador.

Feb. 19. Yesterday the Lords presented their address of thanks to his Majesty, on account of the late Convention with Spain; as did likewise the Commons, and were both most graciously received.

Yesterday a courier arrived at the Secretary of State's office, with an account that his Catholic Majesty absolutely refused to ratify the Convention issued by his Ambassador.

Capt. Preston, who was tried at Boston, on account of a late riot there, has been reimbursed his expenses for that prosecution.

Feb. 20. It is now reported, that the Convention was nothing more than a device of the Spaniards, that the galleons might get safe home from the South Seas.

It is certain his Grace the Duke of Richmond has refused the Viceroyship of Ireland, or any other post, on terms inconsistent with his honour and patriotic principles.

Admiral Pye is going out with a squadron, to command in the Mediterranean, in the room of Lord Howe.

Rear Admiral Montague, is likewise to command in North-America, and to supersede Commodore Gambier.

By private letters from Madrid to an eminent merchant in this city, it appears that the Spaniards are, at this moment, with all diligence and dispatch, carrying on hostile preparations, both by sea and land. In consequence of which, a blow is very speedily to be given; and Gibraltar is said to be the intended victim.—The above mentioned letters have been communicated to Lord Sandwich.

Feb. 14. Wednesday the Spanish papers, relating to the Convention, came under consideration of the lower Assembly. Lord B—p moved in substance,—That an humble address be presented to his Majesty, returning him thanks for having agreed to the Convention, and for his compliance with the request of that Assembly, in laying the Spanish papers before them. Mr. D—l moved, that all those words contained in the address, which conveyed the thanks of the Club for having signed the Convention, be left out, and then the proposed address would only thank his Majesty for having laid the papers before them, which being objected to, the debate began.—Col. B—e made a most spirited speech on the occasion, highly condemning the steps taken by the Ministry in the affr. of Falkland's island.

The debate lasted till half past three yesterday morning, when the house divided; 275 were for the address, and 157 against it.

Mr. D—l made a most excellent speech, which held upwards of two hours, before he moved for the amendment.

The address, we hear, was read so long ago as Sunday night last by the Premier to a few of his select friends.

A letter from Jassy, dated Dec. 24, confirms the account of the Russians having taken the city of Brahilow and Boukareft, in the former of which they found 74 pieces of cannon, and were in expectation of soon extirpating the Turks from that side of the Danube.

Feb. 15. Notwithstanding the late Convention, it is the general opinion that the Year 1771 will not be a year of peace.

A Bill for punishing Mutiny and Desertion in the American Colonies has passed a great Assembly.

Feb. 16. The Hon. House of Commons did not present their Address to his Majesty Yesterday, relative to the late Convention with Spain concerning Falkland's Island, but will present the same next Monday at the levee at St James's.

Thursday the Right Hon. the Earl of Chatham was at the House of Peers, but about Nine o'Clock was carried in a Chair to his House in Pall-Mall, being so much afflicted with the Gout that he was obliged to be carried up Stairs to his Bed-chamber.

People who would cavil, and are clamorous about that Part of the Spanish Declaration, where the King of Spain makes a Reservation of a prior Claim of Right to Falkland Island, would do well to consider, that such Reservation is only mere Matter of Form, and is never likely to produce the smallest Misunderstanding between the two Crowns, especially when they recollect, or may inform themselves, that Spain never to this Hour has renounced her formal Claim of Right, either to Minorca or Gibraltar, in the Treaties subsequent to our possession of those Places.

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.

Capt. Sparks, from London, brings Advice of the Death of the Honourable RICHARD PENN, Esquire, one of the Proprietors of this Province, and Father of His Honour our Governor.

The following is the Substance of several Letters from London, by the Captains Falconer and Christie, viz.

Feb. 12. The Parliament met to-day, and this Morning it is confirmed, that Lord Sandwich on Saturday Night signed the Convention with Spain, which it is said is ample; so all is Peace, and Funds rise amazingly in consequence thereof. If the Peace (for so it is termed) is approved, and can stand, the present Administration is firm as a Rock.

Feb. 23. On the Report of our Differences with Spain being entirely settled, East-India Stock got up from 180 to 225; Bank Stock from 133 to 131; three per Cent. consolidated Annuities from 76 to 86; and all other Stocks in proportion. The Parliament met Yesterday, when Lord North declared to the House, that the Affair, in regard to Falkland-Island, was amicably made up, whether this will have a further Effect upon the Stocks, (they being now almost as high as before the War was talked of) or not, I cannot say; but this I can say, with certainty, the Convention is generally disliked, and it is believed at the same Time, by most People, that it will not be lasting.

N E W - Y O R K, April 18.

The Publication of this Paper was postponed as long as possible, in Expectation of the arrival of the Philadelphia Post with the News by Captain Sparks, who it is said left England the 5th of March.—But the Post not coming in till this Morning, too late for this Paper, the News must be deferred till our next,—the principal Article of which is dated London February 23. That a Messenger was arrived at Lord Rochford's Office from Madrid, with the King of Spain's Ratification of the Articles signed by the Prince de Maserano relative to Falklands-Island, and an Order for the Restitution of Port Egmont, (not Falkland's-Island) and that formal Notice had been sent to the Parliament and the City of London.

It is said Capt. Sparks reported that the Dutches of Gordon was on the Point of sailing for this Port, in Ballast.

Thursday the 9th Instant, was married at Elizabeth Town, PETER VAN BRUGH LIVINGSTON, Esq; Merchant of this City, to Mrs. RICKETTS, Relict of the late William Ricketts, Esq. of that Place.

The Brig King George, Capt. Finglass, mentioned to be cast away near Surinam, we hear got his Vessel off, without receiving much Damage, and arrived safe at his desired Port.

The Public are hereby informed, that on Tuesday the 9th Instant, were taken up and brought before Justice Zabriskie, at Hackensack, Charles Lee, alias Charles Thompson, alias Thompson Charles Lee, and Nicholas Brown and Wife (as they said) and Sebastian Needham on Suspicion of having stolen from several People in this Part of the Country, by taking to change Dollars, &c. for small Silver, and helping to pick out the Pieces with something glutinous or sticky on the Palms of their Hands. On being separately examined they differed much and contradicted each other and themselves in their Accounts. As it is supposed they are Part of a Gang who have for some Time past been raising Contributions on the Inhabitants of New-York, Jersey and Philadelphia; it is hoped that all who are desirous of having a Stop put to this Kind of Collections, will give Information of such of their Exploits as are not yet made known to the Magistrates. The Men are committed to Prison, and the Woman dismissed, nothing appearing against her, and on Thursday went to New-York, where she says she has a Relation.

The past Winter which was uncommonly Mild and Pleasant, till February, has been succeeded by a Spring remarkably Cold and Stormy, with very short Intervals of Warm or moderate Weather, which has greatly retarded the springing of the Grass and Vegetables. For several Days past the Wind has been high at N. W. and the Air almost as cold as in the Depth of Winter, and on Tuesday it snowed lightly for some Hours: The cold Weather and high northerly Winds (it is supposed) prevented the usual supplies of Wood, and occasioned a Scarcity of that Article, raising the Price to the extraordinary Height of 36s. per Cord for Nut, and 24s. for Oak Wood, the like hardly ever known before at this Time of the Year.

POET'S CORNER.

A beautiful Face and a Form without Faults,
Are not the Attractions by which I am caught;
Good Nature, good Sense; and an honest free Mind;
Are perfections in Woman, to which I inclin'd,
For a Time beauty charms, but so certain is age,
That, who for a beauty alone would engage?
Since time surely sullies the brightness of eyes,
And a face is a flower that blights and dies.
Then Vanas begins with your poor empty joys,
Which like the false Syren allures and destroys;
Come Friendship and Sense! guide my choice of a wife,
And I'll love her and bless her all days of my life.

INOCULATION,

[Under no specious Title.]

Notwithstanding any reports to the contrary, Doctor Rogers begs leave to acquaint the public, that he still continues the practice of inoculation at his hospital near Norwalk with amazing success, having inoculated upwards of a thousand without the loss of one single patient. He is very confident that the more sensible part of mankind cannot, and hopes that others will not be amused with Suttonian pretences, when it is a well known fact that inoculation is not, nor ever was so much practised, either in England, Scotland, or Ireland; nor with a degree of success to be compared with that which has attended the practice in North-America. Doctor Rogers makes use of much less Mercury than is commonly administered, having found by experience that with the help of some other medicines, the constitution is thereby much less exposed to be injured. He has inoculated upwards of three hundred patients, within the term of three months, and has had a hundred and fifty under his care at one time. Wherefore although the New-Englanders may thank Mr. Latham for his particular concern for them; yet they may perhaps think that they may, possibly do without his immediate services. Doctor Rogers is much obliged to the public for the custom he has already been favoured with, and hopes for the continuance of their favours of the like kind, as he still stands ready to serve them.

Dated at Norwalk, the 20th day of March, 1771.

To be sold, and entered on the first day of May next.

The Lot contains about 30 Acres of most excellent Land, with very many Fruit Trees, of various Kinds: The public Road from New-York Ferry to Newtown, leads by the Place at a convenient Distance from the House; from which there is a pretty Prospect of Meadows and Creeks. Oysters, Fish and Crab plenty, in their Seasons; likewise two Lots of Wood-Land, one of 7 Acres, within a Mile of the Dwelling House, and another of 5 Acres, about two Miles distant; likewise a Piece of Salt Meadow, yearly affording 6 or 7 Loads of Hay.
